

Neelke De Munck was born in Belgium in 1982. She graduated from the University in Ghent, Belgium: Biomedical Science in 2005 and in Molecular Medical Biotechnology in 2006. In 2008, she started her PhD on human oocyte vitrification. From 2010 she is working as a clinical embryologist in the Centre for Reproductive Medicine, Brussels, Belgium. While working as a clinical embryologist she continued her PhD project which she finished in 2016 (December). Her main focus is oocyte vitrification and optimizing embryo culture conditions.